Jumper Suit

Artful drapery and clever buttoning give a jumper effect to the jacket of this white wool suit. The light-hearted jacket has a casual stand-away collar treatment. In this instance, it's topped by a large straw hat.

Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Clark, 3575 Maplewood Road, announce the engagement of their only daughter, Marilyn Jean, to Mr. Donald R. Klies, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Klies, 1970 Fort Street. Authentic

UBC Garden To Be Built By Japanese

VANCOUVER (CP) — A noted Japanese landscape artist has arrived at the University of British Columbia to develop an authentic Japanese garden on the campus.

Kannosuke Mori, lecturer in landscape architecture at Chiba University's college of horticulture, was selected by the Japanese government to plan the new development next to UBC's new residence development.

The garden will replace one which has been taken over for the residential development. The new garden will occupy three acres.

Although more research work throughout the world is being done on cancer than on any other medical problem, scientists still have not discovered the cause of the disease.

Spacemen's Wives All Enthusiastic

WASHINGTON (UPI) — How does it feel to share your husband with the great, unknown space?

The wives of seven crack military test pilots are reported to all enthusiastically approve of their spouse serving as a guinea pig in the nation's first effort to send a manned satellite into space in lonely orbit around the earth.

The degree of enthusiasm, however, may vary.

The NASA apparently picked married men because they tend to be more stable and have higher motivation.

Beauty Tip

LISBON, Portugal (WNS)—"If you want to stay young, learn to sneeze," advises Indian beautician Razeh who has just opened a salon here. Sneezing prevents wrinkles, he tells customers. He provides them with special handkerchiefs impregnated lightly with sneezing powder.

AD-VENTURE

At 22 knots . . .
we were rolling full
steam,
29,000 tons and
a 90-ft. beam.
To our cabin steward (as thin as a lath),
"Edwards," I said, "I'd like a bath."
"Very good, sir,
a b-a-w-t-h,"
and he picked up a tray,
"I'll see to it, sir . . . yes . . .
right away."
Soon I weaved down the hall in
my negligee,
To meet the bath steward from old Bombay.
He wore a fez-shaped hat of
pinky-red,
A tri-cornered scarf round his middle was spread.
"Sahib" . . . he bowed and motioned me in,
He had filled the tub . . . it was up to my chin.

Maurice Humber

It seemed of cast iron . . .
'twas narrow and deep,
And a row of taps . . . ONE gave me a creep.
Cause a sign in red, which seemed to scream,
"TEST BEFORE USING" . . .
I thot of live steam.
I sat down in this thing . . .
'twas on the slope,
And then I tried . . . to rub on the soap.
I rubbed and rubbed, but no
lather came,
"Sure chisy soap" . . . I thot in my brain.
And so I stood up . . . I was sure getting out,
When I spotted this basin, a 3-cornered sprout.
So I tested my soap . . . 'twas
all MY fault,
Cause THIS was fresh water
. . . in the tub was salt.
I was SO relieved . . . in fact
felt terrific,
That back I sat . . . in the sloshing Pacific.
But then there arose, a problem
much worse,
Should I pull out the plug . . .
let the water disperse?
Or would that hurt "his" feelings . . . he'd think me lunic,
That guy outside in his blue cotton tunic.
I couldn't decide, as my knees
I did-hug,
But I took bold action . . . I yanked that D— plug.
Right off the bat, I K-N-E-W
I'd done wrong,
But it wouldn't fit back . . . the chain was too long.
The water gushed out, and I gave a bound,

I thot I'd go too . . . a great sucking sound.
"Sahib . . . Sahib" . . . I heard
thru the door,
But I'd slipped on the soap . . .
I WAS OUT ON THE FLOOR.
